

Registration 2017

Parents of the participant must read the letter below to better understand the program. Please contact us for additional information or clarifications, if any. Your signature on the last page of this form is needed as agreement and permission to complete the registration process.

Dear Parent,

Thank you for choosing the inme experience for your child. We are confident that it will be an engaging experience and a learning opportunity full of adventure, excitement and fun.

The inme summer program is built around adventure and facing challenges. It is more than just a camping holiday. We want you to take a moment to understand the program content. We encourage you to contact us for additional information or clarification, if any, before registering.

We want you to be aware of the program details. Program activities may include rock climbing, white water rafting, kayaking, mountain biking, trekking, camping at high altitudes, elements of the ropes course or variations of these as well as other sports and activities. Some parts of the experience may stretch the participants - physically and mentally - more than what they are used to.

Travel to camp is by trains and/or hired buses and in and around camps in locally hired jeeps/cars. Accommodation is in tents or dormitories in wilderness settings, and depending on the weather and terrain, participants may face cold, wet or windy conditions. As in any outdoor camp setting, insects, reptiles and other wild life are part of the natural environment; awareness, care and safety are required.

We have adequate supervision, and experienced and trained staff running all inme programs. However, please do understand that camping out in the wilderness and participating in adventure activities have inherent risks. By this we mean that the program has the same level of risk as any private or family trip in the same setting or similar activities.

Our highly trained and experienced team has maintained an impeccable safety record. Adult supervision includes a resident doctor on campus. First-aid and common medication is available on camp. Hospitals may be 45-90 minutes away depending on the campus location. Time to reach them may be more if the need arises away from the main campus or on the expedition based programs. For our off campus programs (under the Challenges section) while the outdoor experts are trained in first aid there may not be a doctor accompanying the group. The nearest doctor is either on the nearest camp facility we run and the 'moving/mobile' adventures are so planned that private or public medical facilities are accessible.

Please understand our communication and update effort. We do not have the provision of contacting children directly while they are on the program. You may however contact our office for updates from the campuses. On most campus based programs we attempt to upload photos and a daily note on our facebook page so parents can get a glimpse of how the children are doing (facebook.com/inme.in). However, this is often time consuming and difficult (net access point may be a mile away and with the kind of signal we get, uploading pictures is not a given). The experts running the program need to focus on the child's safety, learning and engagement and it is not always possible for them to find time to click photos of everyone or even to upload the same in the given conditions.

This effort on our part is to give you a glimpse of what is happening on the program and some reassurance on seeing engaged, happy faces. Please do not expect this to be a commitment or service to capture every participant's photo or its upload. Depending on which group had a camera or what we can upload, all we assure you is some photos as and when connectivity permits. We want you to have clear expectations and help your child prepare for the program. Our experience suggests that children whose parents have set the following expectations in advance get more value out of the experience.

This program is not a luxury camping holiday. It has a structure, schedule, rules, and decorum to be followed. There are shared facilities and resources, and we need to keep everyone's interests in mind. Campuses have Spartan yet comfortable accommodation in tents. To enhance interaction, allocation of tents is usually through a draw of lots. The campuses have hygienic toilets with regular fittings and dedicated cleaning staff, but do appreciate that they can never be the same as one expects at home. The campus kitchens serve wholesome food and variety, but not pizzas, burgers etc.

Expedition based programs (Challenges) have shifting camps and do not have fixed toilets or kitchens. Participants carry their own tents and supplies and help with cooking and cleaning chores.

We have no control over condition of trains and roads, and the journey (especially to the Tons campus) may seem long. Please call us for clarifications, or download the specific program information set that explains in detail the program you want your child to attend.
